COURSES:

PSYC 5360 Quantitative Methods. Three semester hours.
Explores the principles and methods of behavioral research stressing interdependence of experimental design and statistical evaluation of results. An in-depth study of simple and complex research techniques including between- and within-subjects, and other higher-order designs (e.g., mixed and nested designs). Prerequisite: PSYC 5365 and PSYC 3302, or permission of the instructor.

PSYC 5363 Foundations of Psychology. Three semester hours.
Advanced survey course examining the major theories of personality and the development of psychopathology. Consideration of such topics as Freudian and neo-Freudian theory, interpersonal, humanistic and existential theories, and behavioral and social cognitive approaches. Causes, treatment, and phenomenology of psychopathology are explored, with emphasis on the integration of personality and models of abnormality. This course may be taken to fulfill the PSYC 4301 and PSYC 4303 stemwork requirement. Prerequisite: Graduate standing, or permission of the instructor.

PSYC 5365 Advanced Statistics. Three semester hours.
Analyzes the fundamentals of multiple regression and correlation, principles of experimental design, analysis of variance (ANOVA) including factorial and repeated-measures designs and a priori and post hoc comparisons. Introduces computer-based statistical packages in the analysis of both categorical and continuous data from psychological research. Prerequisite: PSYC 2317 and PSYC 3302, or permission of the instructor.

PSYC 5370 Cognitive Science. Three semester hours.
Familiarizes the student with the basic principles from laboratory research in conditioning, learning, and cognitive processes. Introduces the principles and applications of learning, behavior modification, animal cognition, and human information processing. Prerequisite: PSYC 3304 and PSYC 4325, or permission of the instructor.
PSYC 5373 Topics in Social Psychology. Three semester hours.
Explores selected issues in social cognition, prejudice and discrimination, identity, attitudes, social influence, social perception and the empirical methods used to study the effects of social variables in the individual’s behavior. Course may be repeated when topic changes. Prerequisite: PSYC 3301, or permission of the instructor.

PSYC 5375 Introduction to Neuropsychology. Three semester hours
Analyzes the relationship between the nervous system and behavior. Emphasis on neuronal transmission, transmitter dynamics, and principles of nervous system organization. Other areas of emphasis include the psychobiology of drug actions, pain, modulation of consciousness, regulatory processes, information processing, emotion, and the pathophysiology of various mental disorders. Prerequisite: Graduate standing, or permission of the instructor.

PSYC 5380 College Internship in Psychology. Three semester hours.
Provides practical research or teaching experience in psychology. Student must complete 150 clock hours in a supervised internship experience. Prerequisite: Completion of the Major Curriculum course work, or permission of the instructor. [Note: Credit/No Credit course]
