REQUIRE EDGR 5320 Foundations of Educational Research in all Master of Science and Master of Science in Education Degrees offered by the College of Education. This course will replace EDGR 5320 Research Design, EDSP 5398 Research Design, and EDCI 5329 Research Design and Statistics in Curriculum and Instruction

Change EDGR 5320 Research Design Three Semester Credit Hours.
This course introduces quantitative and qualitative research methods and statistical software applications. Students will complete three chapters of their thesis during this course. This course is taken for credit or non-credit. Prerequisite: Approval of major advisor.

To:

EDGR 5320 Foundations of Educational Research Three Semester Hours
This course provides the competencies required for a critical understanding, evaluation, and utilization of published educational research. The course covers quantitative as well as qualitative research methods. Topics include problem formulation and refinement; research design, sampling; measurement and data collection, data analysis techniques, and the inference process. Pre-requisite: Graduate Standing.

Rationale for Change
This redesigned course is needed to ensure that all our students seeking to earn a Master’s degree acquire a sound understanding of research methodologies early (e.g.; within the first 12 semester credit hours) in their graduate program. This background knowledge will help them develop in-depth comprehension of research material encountered throughout their graduate program, as well as facilitate the development of a thesis. EDGR 5320 students will prepare research reports, and have extensive in-class and out-of-class opportunities to work with statistical software packages (e.g.; Statistical Package for the Social Sciences) to help them understand and interpret the meaning of different types of data. They will also be required to demonstrate and explain how the concepts they are acquiring apply in their respective areas of specialization, e.g.; Bilingual Education, Curriculum & Instruction, Early Childhood Education, Educational Administration, Fitness and Sports, Instructional Technology, School Counseling, Special Education and Reading. This course will be taken by students for a grade.
