LEDRL 4301 International Leadership Capstone Three semester hours

This course explores leadership in an international context and builds on material from LEDR 2301. It includes interaction with guest speakers who serve as models of leadership within a variety of areas. Identification of leadership ability through introspection and self-understanding. This course is a capstone which will include assessment of student learning outcomes through a posttest linked to the pretest in LEDR 2301. Prerequisite: LEDR 2301.

Justification: The prefix change is to more clearly link this course to the Certificate in International Leadership.
