Learning Outcomes:
We will explore AP Literature and Composition exams to determine what skills must be taught to enable students to be successful on the test. Participants will do sample lessons that will give them practice developing these skills and examples to take back to their schools. Participants will leave this institute feeling confident to begin their own AP Literature and Composition class or they will have renewed excitement to return to their classroom in the fall supported by a network of AP Lit teachers.

Description:
The week will be divided into study of composition, short stories, poetry, drama, comedy, novels, and test taking skills. There will be individual lessons on each genre with homework to be explored and presented to the group. The notebook will be full of helpful, ready to use handouts, and participants will have worked through them so that adding these lessons to their curriculum will be easy.
