About our Program

Accredited by the American Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), Texas A&M International University A. R. Sanchez, Jr., School of Business is dedicated to the delivery of high-quality professional and internationalized programs to a graduate student population that is drawn from a wide variety of countries and cultures.

Our Master of Business Administration (MBA) program is designed to hone students’ skills from financial and strategic analysis to creating in-depth marketing plans. It examines current financial, strategic, and managerial situations. Graduates will secure a knowledge base that enables them to evaluate and resolve a vast array of today’s pressing business problems.

Our MBA requires the completion of 30 credit hours that includes a core curriculum of seven courses and a concentration track of three courses. The core curriculum of our MBA focuses on the bases of business practices: accounting, economics, finance, management, marketing, and strategy. The concentration track, which gives breadth to the student’s area of study, is chosen from the following areas:

- Accounting • Information Systems • International Business
- International Finance • International Trade Economics
- Logistics • Management • Marketing

Our MBA program is open to eligible students who have earned a bachelor’s degree in any discipline from an accredited institution. Depending on the undergraduate major, up to 24 hours of business foundation courses may be required before beginning the master’s level business courses.

National Recognition:

The Sanchez School of Business has been named as one of the outstanding business schools in The Princeton Review’s Best 290 Business Schools, 2008 Edition. In this same issue, The Princeton Review recognized the School of Business as providing the greatest opportunity for minority students. In addition, our Business School has been featured in U.S. News and World Report’s Best Graduate Schools.

About Our Faculty:

The School of Business faculty is drawn from around the world, bringing a truly international dimension to our program. In addition to educational preparation from the world’s finest universities, many have worked in a diverse array of corporate environments, bringing real-world dimensions to their class preparations. An entrepreneurial spirit typifies all our programs and our business faculty is committed to student success.

Why Should You Come Here? Explore the International Possibilities.

It’s a small University with a growing international mission. Ideally situated on the U.S./México border, our business graduate programs offer graduate business students an unparalleled opportunity to study global business from within that marketplace.

Installations with the latest Technology:

Our classrooms and facilities incorporate the latest trends in evolving Internet and information exchange. The newly established A. R. Sanchez, Jr. School of Business Technology Center and Trading Room offer students one of the best financial trading centers in the nation. Featuring Bloomberg and Reuters news feeds, these centers enable students to access the world of financial information in milliseconds, bringing business education to a new level at the University.
International Business-Oriented Research Centers:

The Western Hemispheric Trade Center houses a variety of business research initiatives including the Center for the Study of Western Hemispheric Trade, the Western Hemispheric Trade Information Center, the Texas Center for Border Economic and Enterprise Development, and the Small Business Development Center.

Experience Business Practice:

Internships are offered in all fields of business studies. Students obtain academic credit by successfully completing a 135-hour internship program.

Study Abroad Programs:

Students can broaden their horizons by participating in Study Abroad. Study Abroad for business graduate students is typically done in the summer, but the program may also be completed during a long semester. Students normally obtain academic credit for study Abroad programs.

Exchange Programs:

The University maintains numerous exchange agreements with universities throughout the world including France, Germany, Spain, China, and México.

Possibility of Fellowship Awards:

The School of Business offers the Graduate Business Fellowship to qualified business graduate students. This competitive fellowship is awarded on the basis of accumulated academic merit. The duration of the fellowship is for one consecutive 12-month period, starting in fall or spring semesters. Recipients are awarded $1,000, payable in two equal installments during the fall and spring semesters. Out-of-state recipients receive resident tuition status for the two regular semesters and two summer sessions that fall within the award year.
