UNIV 1101 & 1102 Learning Outcomes

Outcome #1: Information Literacy Unit

Students taking UNIV 1101 and UNIV 1102 will take part in a Library Information Literacy Unit consisting of six hours of contact. Students taking the unit will receive a thorough overview concerning the current strategies and techniques used to locate both print and electronic information resources in an academic setting. The importance of understanding how to evaluate, analyze and manipulate information resources will also be stressed throughout the unit. The course will also include an overview of proper APA bibliographic citation style. The final course project will be a 10 source annotated bibliography formatted in APA style.

Methods of Assessment

A pre-test and post-test will be administered for each information literacy unit. The test will be broad in scope and intended to assess and pinpoint the student's ability to perform the following ACRL information literacy standards:

-Ability to determine the nature and extent of the information needed; -Ability of student to determine search strategies based on information needs and identify appropriate information resources in the Library; -Ability of student to critically evaluate the information they find and to incorporate that information into their own knowledge base or value system.

Criteria / Benchmark

At least 50% of students who took the information literacy unit will show a 50% improvement from their pre-test scores in their abilities to determine information needs, locate and manipulate appropriate information resources and materials in an academic library environment, to respond to scholarly and personal information needs and to convert that information into an academic synthesis in support of their own

Outcome #2: Course effectiveness

Students taking UNIV 1101 and UNIV 1102, freshman seminar, will indicate on the Educational Benchmarking Institute Freshman Seminar Survey that the course improved their a) academic and cognitive skills, b) managing and time priorities, c) critical thinking skills, d) study strategies, e) connections with faculty, f) knowledge of academic services and g) felt the course was overall effective

Method of Assessment:

Educational Benchmark Instrument (EBI)

Criteria/Benchmark:

UNIV 1101 and UNIV 1102 will rank in the top 20%, i.e. rank 1 or 2 in the select 6 institution comparison group or 1 through 4 in the 20 Carnegie classification comparison group, of the colleges and universities in the Educational Benchmark Institute (EBI) freshman seminar survey for each of the factors listed (a-g).

Outcome #3: GPA

Students taking UNIV 1101 and UNIV 1102 will earn at least a 2.0 overall GPA (not including credit by exams grades but including developmental grades) at the end of the first two semesters.

Method of Assessment:

An end of the semester, a Banner focus report (MTLCM) part of the University's Student Information System database will be used for reporting.

Criteria/Benchmark

At least 70% of students who took UNIV 1101 and UNIV 1102 will earn at least a 2.0 overall GPA at the end of the academic year.

UNIV 1101 – University Seminar Curriculum

Library Information Literacy Unit will be taken by students either in UNIV 1101 or UNIV 1102. Sections which include library unit will be coded for registration tracking purposes.
