Master of Science in Education Interventions for Autism*

This program is currently not accepting any new applicants.

Justification: We are currently not accepting any new students in the Master of Science in Education Interventions for Autism. In the two years, since its inclusion in the 2011 catalog, 18 students have declared this as their major. However, 10 students are inactive. Two students will finish the program in summer or fall of 2013. The other six students started in the spring of 2013 and can easily be switched to the Master of Education in Special Education, which has a minor in Autism. The majority of the faculty feel that the two Master degrees are competing with themselves.
