Student Supply List:
Prior to this week’s activities, teachers should have read the following Spanish short stories: “Un día de estos”; “La siesta del martes” de Gabriel García Márquez; “Dos palabras” de Isabel Allende; and “El delantal blanco de Sergio Vodanovic.

Please also bring to share with colleagues any short readings and other activities that you have found to work well in your classes.

Learning Outcomes:
Teachers will be ready to implement the new AP Spanish Language and Culture course for the 2013-2014 school year, as required by the College Board.
Description:

Topics will include the following:

- An overview of all sections of the AP Exam to help participants become familiar with the skills being tested: listening, reading, speaking and writing.
- Learn and share useful strategies and activities that work in the classroom.
- Experience a simulated AP reading and learn how to apply the new rubrics for writing and speaking.
- Find and share authentic Spanish resources.
- Integrate literature from the AP list into the Spanish language class.
- Incorporate and review Spanish grammar in the context of the AP class.
- Show how to incorporate music, videos and movies into the AP class.
