

Ummra Hang, MSW is a second-generation Cambodian American educator, subject matter expert, consultant, and advocate dedicated to supporting individuals impacted by sexual and labor exploitation, and systemic injustices. Born and raised in Oakland, California, she holds a Master of Social Welfare from UCLA and a Bachelor's degree in Psychology from San José State University.

Ummra currently serves as a consultant with PACT (Preventing and Addressing Child Trafficking) and is an advisory board member for the California CSEC Action Team. She actively collaborates across multiple sectors throughout California, including with Alameda, Santa Clara, and San Mateo Counties' child welfare departments; Oakland Unified, Monterey, and Santa Cruz school districts; and various community-based organizations.

Her impact extends nationally and internationally. Including her role as a lived experience expert for the Center to Counter Human Trafficking at Texas A&M International University and was appointed to the United States Advisory Council on Human Trafficking.

Grounded in her lived, academic, and professional experience, Ummra centers healing, empowerment, and self-sufficiency throughout her work with communities affected by trauma.

Some awards I've received:

- California Legislature Assembly Certificate of Recognition, "For your leadership in the anti-human trafficking movement. Your strength, courage, resilience and commitment to a better tomorrow are inspirational" (2025)
- California State Legislature Certificate of Recognition, For Outstanding Work with the Rising Safe and Sound Program to Keep Youth Safe from Human Trafficking (2023)

- California Legislature Assembly Certificate of Recognition, For Outstanding Work with the Rising Safe and Sound program to protect youth from human trafficking (2023)

